All the thoughts you could share with one look
Everyone is waiting patiently for something
What do you have to say for yourself?
What is this time? Or what is it this time?

Can you tell me what you're feeling
As the sun is at your back
And all of life is going poorly
And you know you just might crack

You can't keep running away
It's gonna catch up someday
Don't be this way, don't be this way
No, you can't keep running away
It's gonna catch up someday
Don't be this way, don't be this way

All your lies have been baiting me to hook
Into the twisted vain of something different
Where do you have to go from here?
How could you do it? Ah how could you do it?

Can you tell me what you're feeling
As the sun is at your back
And all of life is going poorly
And you know you just might crack

You can't keep running away
It's gonna catch up someday
Don't be this way, don't be this way
No, you can't keep running away
It's gonna catch up someday
Don't be this way, don't be this way

Your prayers are made of plastic
Melted by the flames
And you're hoping that your wisdom will not drain into the rain
You're so wrong, you're so wrong

Don't let your light die out
You can turn it all around

Don't let your light die out
You can turn it all around, around

You can't keep running away
It's gonna catch up someday
Don't be this way, don't be this way
No, you can't keep running away
It's gonna catch up someday
Don't be this way, don't be this way

Come on, come on, come on don't do it
Hold on, hold on, your pain I see right through it
The black is falling down from your eyes tonight
The black is falling down from your eyes tonight
Don't be this way, don't be this way
