I see the girl in the mirror of my dreams
The plate of glass splitting at the seams
She prevents me from touching her
Only to look and feel her stare
It's the same perfect girl in another world
Her lips hide a secret of the other girl
Live on the edge is all I'd do to meet her
Live on the edge I couldn't bear to lose her

If I could taste her, breathe her, Touch her
I wouldn't be here any longer than I should have been

The mirror inside my helpless heart
The mirror that bleeds my dry
The mirror that reveals my impurities
The mirror that creates a darker side to me

I am the man in the mirror of her dreams
The feelings that reveal more than fears She's my addict that leads to a habit of Revealing myself leaving me naked
I need to press her chest against the cold hard glass
Her body showing signs of the tenderness
Watching through the mirror I'd do anything to meet her
Watching through the mirror I couldn't bear to lose
her
