

Faded Flames

"Mirror Of Faded Flames"

Visit "Mirror Of Faded Flames" on MotoLyrics.com

Mirror mirror in my head will anyone miss me once I'm dead?

I looked into the mirror and saw nothing but the past,
Times that I was happy, times that I was sad.

But every single moment I knew that nothing lasts.

Every time my heart breaks my mirror starts to crack.

Looking back at my life god it went too fast.

Now there is now mirror only shards of glass,

Tempting me to end it,

Tempting me to slash.

Now you know what's in my mind

Shall we go into my life just a little forward in time.

I never got to say goodbye so there is no end to the tears I cry.

Way up high I think I'll try to fly,

But as I think it's time to die.

I hear a voice from deep inside sigh,

"We try to hide how insane we are because,

Faded flames pray for rain to end their pain, and call the games where every day seems the same. But no matter how stark or far from the mark a single spark can light the dark and end the night. So before you decide to end your life squint your eye with all your might. You just might see that dawn's insight. But only you can make it right. So Fight!"

Visit Faded Flames page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.