"Lazy Bones"

Get me off your small town mattress
And find a rut that's rough with catches
It was easier defined as legend
To find a what that's less imagined

Your lies and laws and doors with latches
They hide the flaws of all the masses
We said, that film was poorly acted
You tasted good but I'm still distracted

By your face, it's light to a lens
You could hang me by a thread
Yeah, you should wake
Up all your friends

'Cause they're all lazybones
And no, you're never gonna get me home
We're always alone
And we'll always be here

Lazybones
And no, you're never gonna get me home
Come on, change your tone
Or we'll always be here alone

I said, ace in love and in resistance
So call me, should you need assistance
That film was good, it went the distance
You tasted good but I'm still distracted

By your face, it's light to a lens
You could hang me by a thread
Yeah, you should wake up all your friends

'Cause they're all lazybones
And no, you're never gonna get me home
We're always alone
And we'll always be here

'Cause we're lazybones
And no, you're never gonna get me home
Come on, just change your tone

Or you'll always be alone

Hey, what's going on?
You always get these big ideas
Then nothing's wrong

Open up your small town mattress
And find a hut that's built with thatches
It's easier defined as legend
To find a what that's less imagined

By your face, is light to a lens
You could hang me by a thread
And you should wake up all your friends

'Cause they're all lazybones
And no, you're never gonna get me home
We're always alone
And we'll always be here

'Cause we're lazybones
And no, you're never gonna get me home
Come on change your tone

And I'll always be here
With you, with you
With you, oh, with you
