My heart is on my sleeve
Wear it like a bruise or black eye
My badge, my witness
Means that I believed
Every single lie you said

'Cause every pain of glass that your pebbles tap
Negates the pains I went through to avoid you
And every little pat on the shoulder for attention
Fails to mention I still hate you

But there's a light on in Chicago
And I know I should be home
All the colors of the street signs
They remind me of the pickup truck
Out in front of your neighbor's house

She took me down and said
"Boy's like you are overrated
So save your breath"
Loaded words and loaded friends
Loaded guns to our heads

'Cause every pain of glass that your pebbles tap
Negates the pains I went through to avoid you
And every little pat on the shoulder for attention
Fails to mention I still hate you

But there's a light on in Chicago
And I know I should be home
All the colors of the street signs
They remind me of the pickup truck
Out in front of your neighbor's house

You want apologies
Girl, you might hold your breath
Until your breathing stops forever, forever
The only thing you'll ever get
Is this curse on your lips
I hope they taste of me forever

There's a light on in Chicago

And I know I should be home
All the colors of the street signs
They remind me of the pickup truck
Out in front of your neighbor's

With every breath I wish your body will be broken again,
again
With every breath I wish your body will be broken again,
again
With every breath I wish your body will be broken again,
again
With every breath I wish your body will be broken again
