You laughed at my affections while I passed by your direction
I should have known from your walk
It was the end of you
Its not that I don't respect your opinion
Your quick with lips just rip me apart Sometimes like this Ive got a big mouth and maybe you can handle shutting it up A simple contradiction could shake my whole foundation
Im taking back every step towards you Still failing at everything I do In the meantime just talking to my shoes Converse with my Converse
At least they hear a word I say And scrutinize it just as far as they can tell what Im getting at Youve twisted my tongue around my neck for the last time
But parker lewis can't lose Ill spend my life trying to figure this all out but this is the last song about you
The last song I waste on you
