If it takes a lifetime I'll feel this way again.

Summer said our name. Like it or not things change.
Four kids, nine lives, and one dream. Some took the long way and I know that someday we will be on the same path again.

Start the car. Turn a light on. Give me something I can write on. Take a Chance. Learn a lesson. They don't know what they've been missing. Sleep to dream. Come to wake up without arguments to break up. If everything turns out the way we planned, we'll be here again.

We're not alone. It's like a different kind of home.
Another place to roam the streets. They said we'd get this far but no one knew for sure, and look where we are.
