I stand not fully convinced that you feel the same
And I fear I won't ever get to show you what your beauty does to me...

I fell asleep in the hour glass
A slight tilt and I'm buried in sand
You are the perfect escape from my past
I think he has something to say (Clear your throat it on!)

I have found my heaven
I look straight into her eyes
I'll simply say that "I love you"
And with that her doubt dies

It never seems to stop
My pulse will race until the end...

(In the cold our breath collides forgetting where it came from,
This collision isn't a coincidence to me)

I stand not fully convinced that you feel the same
And I fear I won't ever get to show you what your
beauty does to me...

I am slowly remembering this
This feeling of letting all go
I usually keep to myself
But it's hard not let this one show
I am close to the edge looking down
At the beautiful ocean, so blue
I've never felt so calm this high
So that all I see now is you!
