Take this piece of glass let it cut real deep into your wrists
Let the blood fall down your arm and fall into the floor
Stain your name, where it does not belong,
Insert name on my heart...

Look to the star's not one's lit it up,
I can't see them from where I stand.
The storm comes in and tears the world apart
It takes you away from me...

That day, you went away,
Forget everything you said to me
'Cause I'll take this knife and erase your name
From my life where it leaves bloodstains.

Moments they stay a while and always seem to go away.
Your name alone is a disease to my body that I can't give up
And this glass of whine will kiss my lips
Can't you see that you are slowly killing me?

That day, you went away,
Forget everything you said to me
'Cause I'll take this knife and erase your name
From my life where it leaves bloodstains.

Take this knife and erase your name
From my life where it leaves bloodstains.
Take this knife and erase your name
From my life where it leaves bloodstains.
Take this knife and erase your name
From my life where it leaves bloodstains.
