Imagine the silence racing the timeless
Holding defences
Guiding the blind to exit the lights
You're following this
But we have to push it comes from the ocean
To follow the darkness
Suffer the most and surface the motion
Now do you understand

We are sailing past your lies
Moving right across your eyes
We are sailing past your lies

This is the true direction, This is where we set sail
The secret's coming out. No use in your resistance
This is the way back home
We are the lost then found

We are the ones called jaded and young
But we have direction
Shadows have come and in them we run
A quiet infection
It started with this the place of the fearless
Taking the dark
And we know the blood that spills like a flood
Now do you understand?

We are sailing past your lies
Moving right across your eyes
We are sailing past your lies

This is the true direction, This is where we set sail
The secret's coming out. No use in your resistance
This is the way back home
We are the lost then found

Imagine the silence racing the timeless
We are the ones called
Holding defences
Guiding the blind to exit the lights
Your shadows have come

Following this
But we have the push it comes from the ocean
Started with this
To follow the darkness
Suffer the most and surface the motion
Now do you understand?

This is the true direction, This is where we set sail
The secret's coming out. No use in your resistance
This is the way back home
We are the lost then found

This is the true direction, This is where we set sail
The secret's coming out.

We are sailing past your lies
We are sailing past these lies
We are sailing past your lies
Moving right across your eyes
We are sailing past these lies
