

Falling Up "Gathering"

Visit "Gathering" on MotoLyrics.com

With a longing heart you turn the tides and say goodbye
With a love that always fades you hold on so tight
Hold back the tears

Legacy that stays so strong is pulling at your heart
All the castles that you made are falling apart
Love is waiting here, so did you

Come back, in these places
In these places this is all that you need
When you want to come back

In these places
In these places this is all that you need
When you want to come back

Blowing in the wind a taste of something tragically Comes to find you when you fall and
When you're in need see beneath the skin

Always waiting is a love that moves your pain away
Always waiting will embrace and wash tears away
Places where this begins, so you

Come back, in these places
In these places, this is all that you need
When you want to come back

In these places
In these places, this is all that you need
When you want to come back

In these places
In these places
In these places

You may think that the world is never going to haunt you
(This place is safe)
That your love is always going to stay true
What do you feel when you fall asleep

(Jesus is longing)
That you will want the blood his hands can bleed

Come back, in these places
This is all that you need
When you want to come back

In these places
In these places, this is all that you need
When you want to come back

This is all that you want
This is all that you need
This is all that you want
This is all that you need
