If you fight it, it will fight you back
If there's one chance
Then you've got one more
If you like, it will like you back

Uninvited but you welcome more
And all that you're waiting for is gone
Although it won't go very far

It's never too late whatever the case
It's here to stay, wish it all away
But it still remains, I'm learning to say
It's never too late to start again
And it all begins where you think it ends

You deny it like at heart attack
Undecided, it keeps coming back
You re-write it, change it front to back
You're reminded of your false control

And all that you're waiting for is gone
Although it won't go very far

It's never too late, whatever the case
It's here to stay, wish it all away
But it still remains, I'm learning to say
It's never too late to start again
And it all begins where you think it ends

Every time you ever wanted out
Oh, you've been to hell and back again
But finally figured out

And every time you ever thought out loud
But you've lost your voice
So just enjoy the way it all plays out
If you like it, it will like you back

It's never too late, whatever the case
It's here to stay, wish it all away
But it still remains, I'm learning to say
It's never too late to start again

And it all begins where you think it ends
