while the water rises
in a stream
helpless
as my indecision's
drowning me

over things that i should clearly see
speechless
when a word would save me it's words i fear

if i falter
would you help me make it right if i run for shelter
will you hold me for the night
if i trust you
will it help me see the light
i've lived my life alone
i've learned my lesson

reaching out to no one who can give me help
feeling
for the candle as i
burn myself

stop and overcompensate

for all the times
that you've been afraid the world's become a conversation close the door
somebody just might hear you never break the silence never break the law
never let them in
it seems so complicated it's not all us & them

if i love you
