(Curly Putman - Steve Pippin)

Now I know that roses are for sending And now I find that candy is for giving Too late I find these arms of mine didn't hold you tight enough
And I'd love to have you back now since I've learned how to give love.

I learned that I love is meant for saying
And I know that love like yours is not for wasting
And I'd give the world to touch the face of the dream I'm dreaming of
And I'd love to have you back now since I've learned
how to give love.

And now I found I did it all the wrong way
I've learned it well and I've learned it all the hard way
And now that I look back on me I can see the fool I was
And I'd love to have you back now since I've learned
how to give love.

And now that I look back on me I can see the fool I was
And I'd love to have you back now since I've learned
how to give love...
