Faced with a challenge of finding right and wrong

In a brand new world that recognizes none

It's hard for me to believe in all my travels

I'm the only one the only one

Chorus:

Using food for thought and thought for food

All I have is my attitude, the hour glass, and my

Ever changing mood

Faced with a challenge of doing all the novel talk

Wondering how to pay for the things my mouth has bought

Wanting to say the right things whenever I talk

I changed the way I stood and the way I walked

Chorus

Bridge:

Lord help me find my way

So that I may go forward

And lead the way

Want to lose the negative but all I lose is time

There's a constant battle going on a chained heart an mind who's winning

Faced with a challenge of knowing right from wrong

Having no preference or allegiance to either one
