(Roses, roses)

I'll send red roses to Mom
So she'll know I'm thinking of her
It's been a long time
Since I told her that I love her

I'll send red roses to Mom
Her love cannot be repaid
Just a bouquet to say
What's in my heart today

It's a little thing to do
Which she'll appreciate
Why hesitate
Tomorrow may be too late

She sacrificed to me many a day
I'll send her roses
And hope that they will day

Thank you, Mom, for the days
When you kissed away my tears
And thank you for your love
Enough to last through all my years

And if the roses say
What I want them to
They'll say, thank you, Mom
Just for being you
Thank you, Mom
