You hear this one song playing on the radio
For a moment the world has stopped moving
It takes you to another day
A time we'll never seem to forget
It's been waiting for you to remember it
And the memories start coming back
As if it were only yesterday
But you're lost now in your own thoughts

I thought these days would never change
And I thought your feelings would never fade
I thought you'd always be here
But now I see that nothing gold can stay

And every time I hear this song

I wonder what went wrong
Because this song is bringing back these memories of you
And every time I hear this song
I know I'll sing along
Because this song is bringing back these memories of
you

I can almost hear you say you'll be with me forever
But you're not here and we're not together
I should probably turn it off now or maybe change the station
But it's no use cause now you're in my head

This has to be the longest drive home
So turn off the radio
