As I wake I see a morning star
Through the window dimly shines
Its final statement at the closing of the night
I've got a few more minutes of night time before I rise

As the dawn is breaking up the darkness
The morning star will fade but never die

Morning star, I can't see your face no more and that's good
Get out now, out on the streets of your nowhere
neighborhood

As I laid down last night I felt no pain
The day went on without a sound
Another night to put all the busyness away
I had a few more hours of night time before I'd rise

All the stars were out last night in the sky
I slept right through as they all went by Soon the dawn was breaking up the darkness
The morning star will fade but never die

Morning star, I can't see your face no more and that's
good
Get out now, out on the streets of your nowhere
neighborhood
You come along with a color that I can't match
Gold chain and a crystal ball attached
You're coming from the wrong direction

And as I sleep tonight I'll dream of you Sleeping somewhere far away
You come into my head so pretty and so true
I get a few more hours to dream of you till I rise

As the fireworks shoot off in the sky
I sleep right through as it all goes by Soon the darkness would suck up into the dawn
The morning star will fade but never die

Morning star, I can't see your face no more and that's

good
Get out now, out on the streets of your nowhere
neighborhood
You come along with a code that I can't crack
Gold chain and a crystal ball attached
You were coming from the wrong direction
I was going in the wrong direction
I was going in the wrong direction
