I will not repeat these words again so jot this down
Tell me where do we stand
A line's been crossed
I never would of thought that we were just becoming
I hope you're not better off without me

This night has opened up my eyes
Every single second (gives?) you another minute
In about an hour you won't see me again
Turn it up loud

I'll be the radio that plays your favorite song
So sing along and run back to my arms
I'll be the radio that plays your favorite song
So sing along and run back to my arms again

Don't turn now just turn around
Be captivated with every line I say
If this is out of line then I took the right turn
But there's so many things about you I still haven't learned

This night has opened up my eyes
Every single second (gives?) you another minute
In about an hour you won't see me again
Turn it up loud

I'll be the radio that plays your favorite song
So sing along and run back to my arms
I'll be the radio that plays your favorite song
So sing along and run back to my arms again

It's never been this way before I swear I swear it [x2]

I'll be the radio that plays your favorite song
So sing along and run back to my arms
I'll be the radio that plays your favorite song
So sing along and run back to my arms again, again
