feeling the weight of unseen chains this routine is growing thin its a narrow path that we walk and the walls are closing in caving in is there room still for us to grow within the bounds weve come to know beneath the dust of our days hides the key to our emotions and its been a while since weve been moved without going through the motions no emotions is there time still for us to sho feelings we forgot long ago living life in still water blinded by what weve become
YOU get tired of screaming when youre not reaching anyone I think its time now for YOU to know holding on is easier than letting go
