It was a communication failure
Someone misunderstood
And then someone got hurt
You must have meant something else
When you said 'no strings attached'
My apologies
Next time i'll pay attention
Or better yet start running like i do

We don't have anything
But time we're taking up
It's breaking your back
And maybe we won't last another day
But we keep on pushing on

I guess that she and you are friends now

And i think that's great
No i really do
A perfect 10 across the board
You got me good, evened the score
But then again i'm losing count

And if you find yourself so insecure
Then maybe you should find out who you are

You were sure that you wanted to
You were sure; i could tell
But somehow in your sureness you made a mistake
And maybe that's okay
