Counting the seconds watching the world come crashing down i knew all along this can't last forever it takes just a moment then it's gone i'm lost in better days i thought the past would never change something has changed and now i have to watch you from my rear-view mirror as i drive away now that it's over

i can admit that i am scared so unprepared
and so unfamiliar everything is vanishing into thin air i'm twisting and turning and burning it's my armeggadon

my own personal ending of all things driving through ashes of romance and memories that used to mean the world to me
