Silence the cry, stepping back further
Escape from the mind, my mind
Twisting inside, looking for shelter
Find the divide in me

Oh my God, what have I done?
One step now the damage is done

It's silent without you
It burns through each and every day
It takes my breath away
So lonely without you
This love you've grown just fades to gray
It takes my breath away

I was so blind, I should've seen it
Notice the life, my life
I had to climb, stepping up further
To find the divide in me

Oh my God, what have I done?
One step now the damage is done

It's silent without you
It burns through each and every day
It takes my breath away
So lonely without you
This love you've grown just fades to gray
It takes my breath away

They ask too much of us
With them you always knew
Just wanna live our lives
You know we're trying to

We put more faith in you
Our courage and our strength
You find you'll raise the dead
Until the sorry end

It takes my breath away
It's silent without you

It burns through each and every day
It takes my breath away
It takes my breath away
