With a full moon rising high on a wind-swept summer night

Me and the boys in the band (rocked truth?),

we were feelin' all right

I really had no high hopes,

I had no expectations at all

We were walkin' into this crowded bar in a little lakeside town way up north

Local girls all buzzed around but I only wanted to pass them by

Then I caught a look and a smile from this girl with light blue eyes

And I could not look away

Stood there frozen in my tracks,

I felt (I'm in Sunday school?)

Asked a local guy I met if he knew her,

he said I was in luck

He brought me over to a table and she shyly shook my hand

I knew right then, oh, I knew right then

I felt a warmth deep down inside, sparks were beginning to fly

Felt my temperature risin' high

She was movin' through me

Just like wildfire

She was shootin' right through me

Shootin' through my heart like wildfire

Wildfire, wildfire

And I could not look away

Each and every night of my life

I'm gonna thank my lucky stars

Every night I'm gonna thank my stars

I walked into that bar

'Cause every night of my life

when I hold her in my arms

Every night, every night, oh every night

I've got wildfire, I've got wildfire

I've got wildfire, wildfire, wildfire C'mon, every night, every night, oh every night
I've got wildfire
