Just another lonely night

An ashtray filled with cigarettes but none with lipstick stains

A secret place where lovers met but never will again

I hate to sit here all alone with blues for company

But I'll just stay here by the phone in case you call for me

Just another lonely night just another lonely night

The coffee's cold and heartaches call oh why can't it be you

Please don't let this be the end of the love that we once knew

I can't believe that you won't call so I'll just sit and wait

My foolish heart keeps telling me she's just a little late

Just another lonely night just another lonely night
