Don't accuse me of being without feelings if you do you know that you're wrong For it was you who was careless and you drove me into another's arms
The other woman isn't prettier than you
But the other woman soothes my wounded pride And more important I feel wanted again I can't give up the other woman in my life [steel]
I'm like a float in the middle of a river I can't climb out on either side
And if I go over the deep end it's because sweetheart you haven't tried

The other woman isn't prettier...
