(Ferlin Husky)

Honey, we didn't touch the sunset
Honey, we never shared the sunrise
Now we've got walls instead of bridges.

Lord, I dread the nights in my lonely bed
Staring back at me empty
How'd you grout my mind all of the time
I wanna climb that wall between us.

I guess we never had good times to be good lovers
And we pay for this when our love suffered Honey, we didn't touch the sunset honey we never
shared the sunrise
Now we've got walls instead of bridges.

--- Instrumental ---

How can I deny those wasted nights
Lord I can't depend this sin
If you'd find the pine I'd try again
And we'd tear down that wall between us.

I guess we never had good times to be good lovers
And we pay for this when our love suffered
Honey, we didn't touch the sunset honey we never
shared the sunrise
Now we've got walls instead of bridges.

Honey, we didn't touch the sunset
Honey, we never shared the sunrise
Now we've got walls instead of bridges...
