"Don't Let Me Come Home A Stranger"

As I walked out one evening
To breathe the air, and soothe my mind
I thought of friends and the home I had
And all those things I left behind

A silent star shone on me
My eyes saw a far horizon
As if to pierce this veil of time
And escape this earthly prison

Will there come a time when the memories fade

And pass on with the long, long years?
When the ties no longer bind?
Lord, save me from this darkest fear
Don't let me come home a stranger
I couldn't stand to be a stranger
Lord, save me from this darkest fear
Don't let me come home a stranger
I couldn't stand to be a stranger
