Oh, the sun has fallen
In the western sky
Houselights flicker on
As I travel by
On this lonely road
I am far from my lover

Oh, my lover's eyes
They are blue and gray
Like the changing tides
In half-moon bay
And she fills my heart
Like the wind in an open sail

She's my song in the evening
A still voice that calms me in the dark
Let this lonely road
Take me home to my lover

There's a chill tonight
The late year lies down
While the crickets chirp
Outside my hotel room
By a fire side
She is waiting for me

She's my song in the evening
The still voice that calms me in the dark
And I belong there beside her
Where the waves break blue beneath the stars
Let this lonely road
Take me home to my lover

Let this lonely road
Take me home to my lover
