"Uncommon Rejection"

Ripping, Tearing. Eating you
Blood stained bark
Hearts stabbing through

Stars beam down
On this night
While the children scream and fight

One child stands by fear
Holding it's hand
Watching death walk near

Killing each child with his mind
Seeking redemption
No one's ever kind

As he moves
The shadows grow
Uncertain recollection
Uncommon rejection

One child stands by fear
Holding it's hand
Watches death walk near

Everyone screaming
Holding their heads
Forced tears like a spring flow

Every sorrowful, mournful cry
Brings no one closer to the time they die
You can't reach and grab it
It can't be taken
Only the unfamiliar
Uncommon rejection
