There's a space in between us
Things just aren't, they aren't the same
In your heart there's an aching
And you can't see through the pain

I would run to your rescue
But you won't call out my name

So I'm reaching across the Grand Canyon
Hoping you will take my hand
And wondering why you're just not listening
So for the time being I'll just keep on reaching for you

There's a thorn you've been holding
And you can't, you can't let it go
I wish that I could stop the bleeding
But you won't, you won't let it show

And I can't wrestle with your demons
If you never let me see them

So I'm reaching across the Grand Canyon
Hoping you will take my hand
And wondering why you're just not listening
So for the time being I'll just keep on reaching for you

To come back to your senses again
And hear me calling, calling, calling

There'll come a day, we'll be together
And all your tears will be wiped away
And on that day, I'll hold you so tightly
And all this pain will just melt away

I'm reaching across the Grand Canyon
Hoping you will take my hand
Wondering why you're just not listening
So for the time being I'll just keep on holding out

And reaching across the Grand Canyon
Hoping you will take my hand
And wondering why you're just not listening

So for the time being I'll just keep on reaching
For the time being I'll just keep on reaching for you
