They should really be talking it's a shame to see

This is the end of a beautiful friendship

Now they are bloodsworn enemies

A shake of the hand, look in the eyes, we had a deal

Scratched it in my arm so you'd know it was real

Promises, promises, your promises are lies

We're gonna hate each other for the rest of our lives

Why should I compromise with that backstabbing

swine?

They should really be talking it's a shame to see

This is the end of a beautiful friendship

Now they are bloodsworn enemies

A counter attack starts with "sorry"

How do you come back from that?

You carried all my sympathy and then painted it black

Honestly, sincerity, the first ones to die

When you show up uninvited with your army of spies

Why should I compromise with that backstabbing

swine?

They should really be talking it's a shame to see

This is the end of a beautiful friendship

Now they are bloodsworn enemies
