Now listen closely
To the perfect choice of words, that there are
So desperate for you to hear
So hard to suppress the way I feel this time inside
So I'll confine my words this time and...

Just breathe
Because inside I'll take this stand
To how they smile and say amen
So ask yourself
Is there more to what we know
More to life than what they'll show us

They'll show you all the side

It's so perfect so pretentious
And still they scar all the eyes
And let the innocent bare witness
With their constant display of hyppocracy

Its wearing its welcome
Wearing its welcome
In me

Father forgive them
For what they've done
For the lives they've wrecked
And for the ones...

The ones they've turned away
