Say you saw another
Act on his hate and misunderstanding
And it makes you so angry
And it makes you so mad

What kind of example
Are you gonna set?
'Cuz violence breeds violence baby
And forgiveness breeds forget
Breeds forget, breeds forget, forget

We were told violence was wrong
And handed a list of situations
In which it would be justified
To compromise

Our disposition
Of offering forgiveness
To those who don't understand
There ain't no reason why
Reason why, reason why, reason

So wait just a minute now
What happens to your righteousness
The moment you justify
Your ill intentions towards another person
And it's gone, and it's gone, and it's gone, gone

Say you got a problem
And you want a solution
Where you going to find it now?
Where you gonna get resolution?

Will you find it in angry words? No
Will you find it in a hateful mind? No
Will you find it in a clenched fist? No
Will you find it in the end of a gun?
I think not

So take just a word of advice
From Mahatma Gandhi, Martin Luther King and Jesus
Christ

You'll find resolution
In a loving heart and in a loving mind

You'll find resolution
In a loving heart and in a loving mind
You'll find resolution
In a loving heart and in a love

He need love, love, love
She need love, love, love
We need love, love, love
You need love

He need love, love, love

He need love, love, love

He need love, love, love
