(Lyrics, Music: Peterson, Triano)

You, when I close my eyes, open my eyes, realize, I think I would oblige and if I tied my tongue together, smelled a rose and fell right on my nose

Would it be the same, should I know your name Could you stay for just a while?
You, when I float downstream, buy the dream and touch the stream, I think it would redeem
and if we drift away together filled our souls and lost all we control

Would it disagree, should I wish to be?
Could you guarantee a while (Refrain)

And help me down from this rope I'm walking such a long, long way to fall and if I see the edge of the morning I got no expectations at all so dance with me tonight

Look at the sky, don't lie, just, just tell me now if I should say goodbye
Fortunate child, so wild, like the river washes sinners reconciled

Would it fall apart, should I close my heart?
Could you hold me for a while (Refrain)

We're alive...we are I can see all around me
You, when I close my eyes, open my eyes, realize, I think we can surmise and if I'm gone too long, this song is all I've got to right this wrong

Would it end the same, should I save your name?
Would you laugh with me a while (Refrain)

Like the breath of the night we all slip away
