

Final Breakup "Walking Slowly"

I can see you taste the moment never close enough to fail Holding on to falling branches afraid of rising through the air

Walking slowly crossing borders trying hard to hold the line I'll try

I might spend my life in wonder with dark clouds above my head Running lost and torn to pieces everytime when you're not there

It's the way you move and the way you make me laugh I'm blinded by your shining light
I truly hope to reach your heart

Walking slowly crossing borders
trying hard to hold the line

my heart is filled with icy water just can't look into your eyes

My mind still drowns in murky oceans the current floating fast I just can't control my motions please come and save me from the dark

I see your shadow passing through me Never thought this could be real I see the look you got upon your face You feel the same way like I feel

I hope we take our steps together
On the same side of the street
I play my song you sing along Together we will sing our melody
