I wouldn't know how to start with you, the most depressing kid I know.
If I could just strangle the words from me and you.
Giving up your life, you already gave it up.
Ignoring every word I said, ignoring every word I wrote.

I wish your life was with me, it's way out there.
I wish your life was here please, it's way out there.

I wish I could spill out everything to you.
I'd call you a fucking coward, and express my love too.
It's so easy to run and hide behind your lies.
It's so damn easy to leave without putting up a fight.
