Living in a hole it's hard to get for what you ask
The hardest part of having a good day is making it last Seems that everywhere I turn I'm still a step behind
I'm going nowhere slow and I think I'm losing my mind

Growing older everyday is not a simple task It's even harder when your happiness is at most one mask
Striving harder to evolve and keep up with the rest
Apathetic, push you down and make you second best

Chorus: I look to you to get me up again
The hardest part is admitting that I need a second hand
If only I was meant to work with my ears and hands
What's coming down will be beneath me

It isn't easy living up to everyone you see

But being human we're so stupid, won't let it be The pressure rises as we struggle here on our own
To the point where you're only happy when you're all alone

Chorus: (x4) I look to you to get me up again
The hardest part is admitting that I need a second
If only I was meant to work with my ears and hands

What's coming down will be beneath me (x4)
