"Same old world"

What if I could tell the world it's slowly fading?
What if I could tell the world your name?
What if I could pretend I'm fine so not to ask what's wrong?

And it's the end of everything
And it's the end of our will to share
The end of our lies

'cause it's the same old story
And the same old game
We played
'cause it's the same old story
And the same old game
we played

What if I could tell your Father you're a failure?
What if we learn how to fight our nature?
What if I could just forget oh, what's so wrong with that?

And it's the end of our day
And there are no more delicate words left to say
It's the end of our lies

'cause it's really time to go
You know that we won't meet again
