"Death Before Dawn"

On a cold and scary night, I looked into the fireplace
Through the dancing flames, once I saw the Devil's face
He reached out of the fire and grabbed me with his hairy
Arm
He pulled me into the flames
I started to burn, feel like I'm falling down!
... I found myself between the ruins of a cursed place
The nightfall was near, the sky turned red like bleeding

Veins
He caught me with a spell
And hung me with chains
He was jumping around me
With ugly smile on his hairy face
He said this is the end
When I can see the dusk for the last time
I'll never leave this land
He laughed at me with burning eyes:
"you shall die before dawn!"
