you are always on my mind whenever i'm away and i hope you think about almost every day because what you are to me no one else will ever be can i get it back? did they know it all along? can i make anything out of family who belong?

i clean up my home to see if that makes company look at pictures from a youth when they were all with me and the sun is on my floor and i hardly burn for more is her life better now? has she found a better partner from before?

i miss her more and more some friends are lost and found and will be lost again and the suffering won't end no matter how we all pretend

and if my love carries on will i always be alone?
