"Your Wall"

You've got a way
Of watching the world divide
You into place
Direction is lost in flight

Everyone is gone
Let it slipaway
Look at you
At the end of it
This moment will rise
And it takes you further inside...

In through your wall again
That crumbles you once your in
In through your wall again
Until you can reach the end

I can see through
When communication is gone
The pieces of you
Fall down from the clouds you are on

Everyone is gone
Let it slipaway
Look at you
Now you're at the end
This moment will rise
And it takes you further inside...

In through your wall again
That crumbles you once your in
In through your wall again
Until you can reach the end
In through your wall

Empty your head
And the rest will come
I missed you then the moment was gone

Look at you now
This moment will rise

And it takes you further inside
Lost your place, but no one can tell
That you're sick
Of loosing yourself

In through your wall again
That crumbles you once your in
And now you're complete within....
