I just woke up from a dream in a dream or for real I feel free to climb any mountain and to be what I want to be this imminent thing is not my problem as long as I don't care and that just might not be fair I feel so betrayed go and get yourself laid the sincerity is gone I feel so relieved the affection you show me is long time gone and now you're asking me the question how I could do that to you I've tried to settle out arguments the best way I could but it just don't seem to fit us both
I feel so betrayed?
chorus: respect hits me like a sledge in the head could you show some respect you say that I am way from the time you say that I should leave you alone for me it's fine ut when I have walked for myself on the road to success I see you come along pretending to be my friend

I feel so betrayed?
you like to think that raised fist is nothing to care about just as you told me we just scream and shout you have to get through you head that we're not in this along can't you see that this id the way I like to live
