So you think the areas are gray
But it continues each day
A bad example of the attitude you portray

Act like I owe you my life
You should be burdened with strife
Can't find a single reason I could live with you as my wife

So I continue to pray
And hope that you'll go away
A bad addiction to a home wrecking thing who plays

With my heart and that's the bottom line
I feel so empty now

What can you give me that I can't give myself?
Just what part of my life can you fix
That I can't fix my damn self

Oh God, I'm losing patience each day
I've put myself in harms way
Can't seem to justify none of the shit you say

Can't find another way out
I'm on the verge of pulling my hair straight out

So if you listen to me
Not to the powers that be
We're not supposed to be together can't you see

In decision is the bottom line
I feel so empty now

Just what can you give me that I can't give myself?
And what part of my life can you fix
That I can't fix all by myself

Just what can you give me that I can't give myself?
Just what part of my life can you fix
That I can't fix my damn self, my damn self

I'm gonna show you now
This time I'm getting out
I've said it many times but this time I have figured out

Just how I'm moving on It's taken way too long
Inside I know I'll feel much better when you're really gone

Just what can you give me that I can't give myself?
Just what part of my life can you fix
That I can't fix my damn self

Just what can you give me that I can't give myself?
Just what part of my life can you fix
That I can't fix my damn self
