So maybe I am bound by fate
A problematic scarring induced by hate
It never seems to all pan out
Is that what all this teaching is needed to scout

You seemed to have a bad effect
Your rules and contradictions, I would neglect
Though not my fault, you made me feel Like my own education wasn't truly real

Then you came right in, tearing out my soul
How could all this loss be your only goal?
I'm left standing here, desperate in the cold
Since you took your life, mine has not been whole
Has not been whole

So there I stood a scolded child
The reasons never questioned my pains been filed
Inside this place that makes me feel
I learned life is unfair and that is very real

Then you came right in, tearing out my soul
How could all this loss be your only goal?
I'm left standing here, desperate in the cold
Since you took your life, mine has just not been whole

My life is just not whole
My life is just not whole

While you try to overcome the lesson
Making the most of those questions that just keeps me guessing
I'm looking longer, harder, further than I ever have Solitude breaking me down, you always seemed glad

To let yourself and stick me in the little pit
Personal growth as a child that mattered not a bit
Then I became the person that you hated most Disrespecting the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost

A small example of what the things you've done to me
Have changed in my life and changed the things that I can't be I'll never be

Then you came right in, tearing out my soul
How could all this loss be your only goal?
I'm left standing here, desperate in the cold
Since you took your life, mine has just not been whole

My life is just not whole
