"Say You Will"

Something in you brought out something in me that I've never been since.

That part of me that was only for you, that kind of romance

Comes Only Once that kind of love, that kind of fever dance

That you love because you become someone else in an instant

Say you will, say you will Give me one more chance

At least give me time to change your mind

That always seems to heal the wounds

If I can get you to dance

Something in you put a hold on my heart

Hard to believe now

Here is a place that will never be dark

I remember that place

That kind of touch

Electricity of love

That certain kind of grace

instant

Give me one more chance

At least give me time to change your mind

That always seems to heal the wounds

If I can get you to dance
