You and I were finished, I was through with you
Splitting up forever, seemed the thing to do
I said I can't stand you with your honey touch
This time you were cheating me one time too much

Just then I remembered that a friend I knew
Told me one thing, I should never do

Never, never change your lovers
In the middle of the night
Everything may look so different
In the early morning light

Never, never be too hasty
When you're groping in the dark
What you're getting into may be just a lark

Keep your cool and don't change lovers
When you're feeling sorta high
Sorta big and high and mighty without really knowing
why

Let the heat wear off a little
Give your man another chance
And don't fall for someone else's song and dance

Sure there was this guy, right next to me
Mine just for the asking, he said he would be
But to leave my man seemed to me all too strange
And I'd say that I'm glad, I didn't make the change

Now our life is almost like a paradise
Let me pass on to you this advice

Keep your cool and don't change lovers
In the middle of the night
You may feel a strong temptation
The vibrations may be right

But who knows what's gonna happen
You may simply lose your cool

When you find it, you'll find out you were a fool

Never, never change your lovers
Under any midnight spell
Take it easy, slow and easy
Everything will turn out well

Let the sunshine on a new day
And don't move while you're uptight
Changing lovers in the middle of the night

Never, never change your lovers
In the middle of the night
Everything may look so different
In the early morning light

Never, never be too hasty
When you're groping in the dark
What you're getting into may be just a lark

Keep your cool and don't change lovers
When you're feeling sorta high
Sorta big and high and mighty without really knowing
why

Let the heat wear off a little
Give your man another chance
And don't fall for someone else's song and dance
