There's a breeze that's blowin' in from the land
Instead of salt air all we breathe in is sand Crippled the cloud that once brought the rain
Good job, now we'll never see our coasts again

But those of us, those of us, us of lesser gods Won't eat till we're hungry, won't drink till we're parched
But those of us, those of us who forget where we're from
Create now this hell where no devil could spawn

Take me back, take me back
To the way life used to be

A whisper's now sayin' what words used to speak Starve must the child, hungry sex on TV
For no act of contrition will pardon the soul
The damage now glistens, see how it glows

Won't eat till we're hungry, won't drink till we're
parched
Those of us, those of us who forget where we're from Create now this hell where no devil could spawn

Take me back, take me back
To the way life used to be

Yesterday is better than it is today
And today will be better, tomorrow they say We don't want what you know but we know what we want
That's live and let live, we're all different that counts

But those of us, those of us, us of lesser gods
Won't eat till we're hungry, won't drink till we're
parched
And those of us, those of us who forget where we're
from
Create now this hell where no devil could spawn

Dark is the shallow man, proud without pride Worn out comes the welcome from a truth that never lies
Weep now for the tear, cold on the face
So come down from your heaven, Lord
Let me show you hell on earth

Take me back
To the way life's never been
