"Comes And Goes"

The woman's like the night
She comes and goes
She breaks my heart each day
And never knows,
And the time I spend in sorrow
Will match the time I live And the time that't left is All I have to give.

The woman's like an ivy
on a pole
She wraps her twisted love around my soul
There will come a sudden winter
When she seeks the warmth of day
And there'll come a time when she will come to stay.

The woman's like the tide
She comes and goes
She knows the things that I can just suppose.
And the time I spend in sorrow
Will match the time
that she laughs
And the songs I sing cannot explain but half.
