Televisions buzzing
Bus stops full of nothing
Dead end streets
Take you nowhere
Cracks around the door where
Sunlight used to glow now
Everything seems broke
We're nowhere

Send a message in the sky
No more truth and no more lies
So we can see the world tonight
Through angels' eyes
Send a message through the rain
So we can feel the sun again
And see the world in black and white
Through angels' eyes

See her dress is fading
Colors dissipating
She's too young
To fade away
Notebooks, empty pages
She made plans for ages
Tried to climb
But it's too late

Send a message in the sky
No more truth and no more lies
So we can see the world tonight
Through angels' eyes
Send a message through the rain
So we can feel the sun again
And see the world in black and white
Through angels' eyes

Send a message in the sky
No more truth and no more lies
So we can see the world tonight
Through angels' eyes
Send a message through the rain

So we can feel the sun again
And see the world in black and white
Through angels' eyes
